The 2018 Workplace

Charged social dynamics, racial and religious polarization, and political division are being experienced in communities across the globe. Our employees and workforce struggle to make sense of conflicting values, and the boundaries between personal (home) and professional (work) are no longer clear. Leaders need a brave space where they can come together to learn and better understand how to leverage diverse mindsets, obtain relevant skillsets, and utilize toolsets that work to advance diversity, equity and inclusion in today's workplace. In short, they need a place to practice bold conversations that forge connections across difference and get people working together toward organizational goals.
