

Corporate Pledge on Religious Equity, Diversity and Inclusion

THE PLEDGE & RESOURCES

Research and experience show that the success of the U.S. economy and society is due in no small part to the success we have had promoting a strong and religiously diverse workplace, one that includes and protects people of all faiths and of none. Recent research, however, finds that more than one-in-three American workers report experiencing or witnessing workplace religious discrimination.

The Corporate Pledge on Religious Equity, Diversity and Inclusion — which supports religious diversity and freedom in the workplace — sends two clear messages to current and prospective employees: (1) You can work here without changing who you are; and (2) the company respects all employees and will not favor certain employees over others, and that’s good for the business of all.

The Pledge is one component of a company’s overall strategy to value its employees and increase their loyalty for the benefit of customers and shareholders. The Pledge is a company’s public commitment to take reasonable steps to ensure that working at the company does not put employees at odds with their deeply-held religious convictions.

CORPORATE PLEDGE ON RELIGIOUS EQUITY, DIVERSITY AND INCLUSION

Promoting Sustainable and Innovative Business Through Protecting Freedom of Religion or Belief [COMPANY] affirms that freedom of religion or belief (“FoRB”) is a fundamental right. [COMPANY] also recognizes that religious freedom promotes sustainable and innovative businesses, contributes to human flourishing, and results in peaceful and stable societies. For these reasons, and with a vision of a future of innovative and sustainable economies where FoRB and diversity are respected, [COMPANY] strives to be a leader in promoting and protecting FoRB in its workplace and communities. [COMPANY] will not tolerate abuses of religious freedom within its sphere of influence.

Non-Discrimination and Non-Harassment on the Basis of Religion or Belief [COMPANY] respects each individual’s rights to freedom of religion or belief, provides equal employment opportunities to all employees and prohibits discrimination on the basis of religion or belief. [COMPANY] promotes a religiously inclusive environment where each employee’s beliefs are recognized and respected, but where religion or belief is not a matter of force or coercion. Consistent with this policy, an employee may seek, and [COMPANY] will provide, a reasonable religious accommodation that does not create an undue hardship on [COMPANY]’s business if his or her religious beliefs, observances, practices, or requirements conflict with his or her job, work schedule, [COMPANY]’s policy or practice on dress and appearance, or with other aspects of employment.

Protecting and Promoting Religious Diversity and Inclusion in Our Communities

[COMPANY] strives to be a leader in promoting and protecting freedom of religion or belief (FoRB) among its stakeholders and in the broader community. [COMPANY] gives priority to business partners, suppliers, and contractors who share [COMPANY]’s values, including FoRB. [COMPANY] supports their efforts to promote these values through their business activities. Among other practices that are consistent with this policy, [COMPANY] will strive to support local, national and global initiatives that promote FoRB, and may refrain from doing business with or investing in companies and governments that restrict FoRB.

BEST PRACTICES

Religious Non-Discrimination and Non-Harassment

- A company should not discriminate against a job applicant if the applicant includes religious experience on a resume.
- A company may choose to integrate its religious non-discrimination and non-harassment policy with its general non-discrimination and non-harassment policies. This may include establishing a safe, anonymous reporting system for employees who feel they have been discriminated against or harassed, including for reasons related to an employee's religion or belief.

Religious Accommodation and Inclusion

- A company should consider Religious Diversity and Inclusion when implementing other policies and programs. For example:
 - A company should ensure that its dress code policy allows an employee to request a reasonable accommodation if the employee's religious beliefs require certain grooming and dress practices.
 - A company may ensure that its cafeterias provide menu options for employees whose religious beliefs require certain dietary restrictions.
 - A company may consider allowing employees to take a "floating holiday" that may be used on a date of the employee's choice, which may include a religious holiday.
- A company should welcome inclusiveness in religion and belief, without making religion or belief a matter of coercion. For example:
 - A company may consider allowing employees to form religious or faith-based employee groups, provided that the company does so on a nondiscriminatory basis.
 - A company may consider creating designated spaces that employees may use for prayer or other religious devotional practices.
 - A company should never allow employees to feel compelled or pressured to participate in religious or faith-based observances or activities. For example, if a group of employees in a religious or faith-based group chooses to have a prayer meeting on company premises, other employees should not be implicitly or explicitly pressured to attend the meeting.

Protecting and Promoting FoRB in Our Communities

- A company may integrate its FoRB policy with its corporate social responsibility program. For example:
 - A company may make religious freedom protections part of contracts for organizations that are part of the supply chain.
 - A company may choose to pull direct foreign investment out of countries that abuse human rights, including the right to freedom of thought, conscience, and religion.
 - A company may provide resources and fundraising for NGOs that promote religious freedom.
 - A company may approach governments about creating social or political situations that are more favorable to expatriate employees who will be religious minorities.
- A company may consider making religious freedom initiatives part of its disclosures in its annual statements.

HUMAN RESOURCE POLICY

Recommended language for a Company's HR policies:

Discrimination on the Basis of Religion or Belief. [Name of Company] is an equal opportunity employer, and prohibits discrimination on the basis of religion or belief. This prohibition on religious discrimination applies to all aspects of employment including, without limitation, recruitment, interviewing, hiring, training, job assignments, promotions, demotions, compensation, benefits, transfers, terminations, layoffs, firing, recalls, tuition assistance, and social and recreational programs.

It is the responsibility of every employee to strictly comply with this policy. This policy prohibits unlawful harassment of any kind, including jokes, slurs, offensive gestures, and bullying on the basis of religion or sincerely held beliefs. Furthermore, supervisors should allow religious expression among employees to the same extent that they allow other types of personal expression that are not harassing or disruptive.

Any employee who feels that he or she has been treated contrary to this policy, including any harassment by company personnel or work-related harassment by any other person, should contact his or her supervisor, any member of the human resources department or the employee relations office. Any employee who is found to have violated this policy shall be subject to disciplinary action up to and including termination of employment. [Name of Company] will not retaliate against any employee for filing a complaint and will not tolerate retaliation by management, employees, or co-workers.

Religious Accommodation. [Name of Company] respects the religious beliefs and practices of all employees and will provide, upon written request, a reasonable accommodation. A reasonable accommodation is one that does not create an undue hardship on the company's business.

a. Requesting a Religious Accommodation. An employee whose religious beliefs or practices conflict with his or her job, work schedule, or with [Company Name]'s policy or practice on dress and appearance, or with other aspects of employment, and who seeks a religious accommodation must submit a written request for a reasonable accommodation to the company's human resources department. The written request will identify the type of religious conflict that exists.

b. Providing Religious Accommodation. The human resources department will evaluate the request, considering whether a work conflict exists and whether an accommodation is available that is reasonable and that would not create an undue hardship on [Company Name]'s business. Depending on the type of conflict and suggested accommodation, the human resources department may confer with the employee's supervisor. The human resources department and employee will meet to discuss the request and decision on an accommodation within thirty (30) days of the employee's request. If the employee accepts the proposed religious accommodation, the human resources department and/or the employee's supervisor will implement the decision. If the employee rejects the proposed accommodation, he or she may appeal in accordance with the company's general grievance policy and procedure.

EXTERNAL POLICIES

Possible language for a Company's corporate social responsibility policies:

[Name of Company] is committed to treating every person with dignity and respect. No matter the religion or belief, the Company recognizes and promotes the economic value and social benefits of robust religious diversity and liberty.

In its interactions with suppliers and customers, including without limitation the decision to do business with such, [Name of Company] does not discriminate on the basis of religion or belief. The Company emphasizes the need for ethical working conditions for those within the Company's supply chain. The Company encourages its suppliers to enact their own protections against religious discrimination and harassment.

In the larger community, [Name of Company] supports governments and organizations that protect religious liberty. Societies in which human rights are respected are more stable and provide a better environment for business. Businesses, whether operating outside their country of origin or at home, may have the opportunity to promote and help raise standards in countries where protection of human rights issues is insufficient, especially in ways that are strategically relevant to its core business.

TRAINING, TOOLS & SUPPORT

The Religious Freedom & Business Foundation, together with its partners, offer a variety of resources to help businesses and business professionals effectively lead and succeed in a world of growing religious diversity.

Training

The Religious Freedom & Business Foundation, in collaboration with the Freedom Forum Institute's Religious Freedom Center, offers in-company and Washington, D.C. campus-based seminars on the empirical evidence of the value that religious liberty, religious diversity, and religious inclusion play in business strategy, corporate policy, and economic growth. Participants learn frameworks that will help them lead effectively in a world of growing religious diversity, and how to respect religious freedom as it relates to other freedoms and responsibilities in the workplace and society.

Tools

The Religious Freedom & Business Foundation, in collaboration with the Tanenbaum Center for Interreligious Understanding, offers companies a self-assessment tool – the Corporate Religious Diversity Assessment (CRDATool.org) – to help them determine how well they are putting it into practice The Corporate Pledge on Religious Equity, Diversity and Inclusion. Tanenbaum and the Religious Freedom & Business Foundation will also offer trainings in conjunction with the CDI for companies that are interested in improving their policies and practices on religious diversity and inclusion.

Community Outreach

The Religious Freedom & Business Foundation, in collaboration with Launching Leaders International, provides companies licenses for Empowerment-Plus, an interfaith community outreach program that builds social cohesion and encourages enterprise. The main components include a web-based interfaith leadership program that helps young adults identify their core and spiritual values and how these values impact their approach to relationships, career and society. Each Launching Leaders is a 10-week program requiring two facilitators (each from a different faith or belief background) who reach out to young adults in their communities, helping them identify mentors as well as service projects.

Networking

The Religious Freedom & Business Foundation also invites all companies signing The Pledge to become part of a global network committed to advancing the pledge's values, including invitations to regular peer-to-peer meetings of business leaders, entrepreneurs, politicians and thought leaders. The next meeting is the 2020 Global Business & Peace Symposium and Awards at the start of the 2020 Summer Paralympics Games in Tokyo. These international gatherings occur biannually on the margins of each Summer and Winter Olympic and Paralympic Games, including Rio 2016 and PyeongChang 2018.
